Bull Run Recreation Grounds Are Expanded

Bull Run park will soon be expanded from 115 to nearly 500 acres.

The Northern Virginia Regional Park authority has announced the purchase of 154 acres for $53,900. Another 230 acres or so are under a purchase contract already.

Fred Packard, executive secretary of the Northern Virginia Regional Park authority, is dreaming of a 10,000-acre Bull Run Park—but it's really only a dream.

HE SAYS he'd like to see it come true, but admits that "of course we couldn't pay for all of that."

So far, the authority has increased the acreage of Bull Run Park in Fairfax County from 115 to 499 acres. "Eventually, we'd like to control the entire river," Packard says.

The original 115 acres along Bull Run was owned by Gardner C. Means. It was purchased for $31,000 Feb. 9. The authority added another 154 acres on Cub Run, next to Rt. 66, with the $53,900 purchase of the land from William F. Shouse.

And the authority has already agreed to pay $300 per acre for land running between Cub Run and Bull Run owned by Philip M. Mitchell. While the acreage is thought to be 230, a recheck is being made of the exact area, Packard says.

THE SHOUSE tract has already been paid for. Packard, who is also director of the Fairfax County Park Authority, says the county has already made the 29 per cent total down payment on the land.

Because the park—"the first regional park in Fairfax County—would serve people from Fairfax, Arlington, and Falls Church, all three are paying toward its cost.

The payment is based on population. Fairfax provides 60 per cent of the funds, Arlington 38 per cent, and Falls Church two per cent.

The aim of the authority, established in 1959 under the guidance of Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson, chairman, is to preserve open spaces in Northern Virginia for recreational purposes.

THE AUTHORITY has emphasized that the areas it intends to preserve be left in "something approaching their natural state." According to a statement of purposes, the authority feels that undeveloped areas can curb "urban sprawl" and act as buffers separating regions of urban settlement.

Bull Run Park, for example, "is intended to preserve a large natural area suitable for hiking, camping, riding, and similar activities that will not disturb the natural features."

Packard said that when the weather permits, an all weather entrance road from Rt. 2458 off Rt. 641 will be provided, plus water and sanitation facilities.

* This bird (♀ Red wing as near as I could determine) looked more like a cross between White Throat and Cowbird. It walked like cowbird ate with them but also chased by them. It had a completely streaked (thickly) breast and tummy. Color brown. The back exactly like white throat; also had white stripes over eyes and a hint of white throat but more like the white throat of some Eng. Sparrows. Size the same as cowbird.
